The beautiful stained glass chancel window in the FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Orlando, Florida, showing the compassionate Christ with arms outstretched to suffering mankind with the invitation, "Come unto Me." Below, the parable of the Good Samaritan is developed symbolically. The borders portray acts of Christian mercy as found in Matt. 25:35-36.

The window was designed and built by Dr. Henry Lee Willet of Philadelphia, the foremost stained glass artist in America.

The officers and members of The First Presbyterian church are glad you & Mrs Shemaster could worship with us and hope you can come again.

Sincerely
Bertha D. Martin
